ABOUT OMAN

Oman is a country located in the Arabian Peninsula in Southwest Asia. It has a diverse and unique natural environment, characterized by a mix of mountains, deserts, beaches, and wadis (dry river beds).

One of the most prominent natural features in Oman is the Hajar mountain range, which runs parallel to the country's northern coast. The mountains offer scenic views, trekking opportunities, and a chance to explore traditional mountain villages.

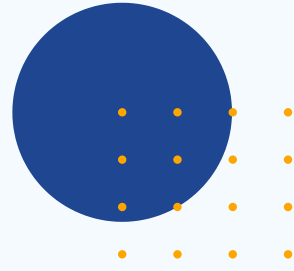

Oman's coastline is also a significant natural asset, with over 3,000 kilometers of beaches, bays, and coves. The coastline is home to diverse marine life, including whales, dolphins, and sea turtles.

The country's deserts, including the Wahiba Sands and the Empty Quarter, are vast and imposing landscapes that offer a glimpse into the harsh and rugged natural environment of the region. The deserts also offer unique opportunities for desert camping, camel riding, and stargazing.

Oman's wadis are also a unique natural feature. These dry river beds are transformed into flowing streams during the monsoon season, providing a refreshing escape from the heat of the desert.
